

commercialscapes

Ensuring business premises are well presented and portray a professional image is increasingly important in today's competitive environment and is the reason why tcl have established 'commercialscapes'. It has been developed specially to support the requirements of both the commercial property developer and the business end-user of the premises by establishing a range of services that support the design, construction and maintenance of business premises. Services include:

design services

tcl's in-house design team, Covey Outdoor Design, have extensive experience of supporting developers achieve planning approvals through effective use of planting solutions and cost effective design. Through a 'design only' service or as the starting point for a 'design and build' service, the Covey Outdoor Design team will ensure that the development has an effective landscape strategy. This will serve to ensure that planning applications will be achieved, development costs will be understood and appropriately budgeted and that the development will appeal aesthetically to the anticipated end-user.
