tcls' in-house landscape design practice, Covey Outdoor Design, has extensive experience in supporting the residential house builder through all stages of landscape design; from early stage masterplanning through to detailed landscape design schemes for presentation of planning applications.

Through our involvement in an extensive range of large scale planning projects including high quality rural, city centre and urban landscape design, Covey Outdoor Design has proven experience and ability to deliver outstanding results and offers the following services:

- Landscape masterplanning, visual impact assessments, concepts and detailed plans, supporting documentation and appeal evidence for planning approval
- Specialist arboricultural advice
- Landscape design services for all areas of residential construction including plot design schemes, plot enhancements, sales schemes and street scene design
- Play area design including NEAPs, LEAPs and LAPs
- Living (green) roof design
- Working with ecologists and other professionals to create tailored environmentally sustainable landscape strategies

tcls' in-house design team, Covey Outdoor Design

- Provides a broad range of services derived from over 25 years of design and practical implementation experience
- Designs landscape schemes to deliver visual impact from day one which means that you can enjoy immediate height and structure from the considered use of mature trees, specimen plants and planting schemes ensuring all year round colour and form
- Has a passion to fulfil our customers' quality values; through the specification of high-standard materials and the consistent use of best practice
- Delivers projects with inspirational creativity; combining great design, economic viability and environmental responsibility
- Presents clear and concise detailed drawings and plans combining text, technical drawings, illustrations and photographs to ensure they are understood easily
